++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Cloudy and cold start, turning wet later for Saturday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Largely dry but rather cloudy this evening with any lingering showers clearing. Skies clearing overnight, especially in the west, allowing for frost, icy patches and freezing fog. Minimum temperature -4 deg C (25 deg F).

Saturday:
Bright and dry to start for most, before a band of showery rain arrives to eastern areas by the afternoon. Some rain spreading westwards later. Drier and foggy overnight. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Cloudy on Sunday with scattered showers, perhaps wintry. Perhaps drier on Monday and Tuesday with some bright spells though a few wintry showers to the east. Feeling cold, becoming breezy.
